Model T's pose on future site of gallery

The Model T Club paid a recent visit to the Maloof Foundation. Sam (in foreground) climbed on-board a 1915 model to pose with club members. The car was built the year before Sam was born.

On a bright summer-like day in May, the Model T Club paid a visit to the Maloof Foundation. Many of the cars, dated from 1914 through the twenties, have accompanied their owners extensively throughout the world. Sam climbed on board one car dated closest to his own birth year and posed with club members in the 1915 model.

The club toured the historic Maloof compound and museum before lining up one-by one on the future site of the Maloof Gallery. The new gallery will be the capstone to the Foundation's mission to perpetuate excellence in craftsmanship, encourage artists and educate the public about the value and specialness of hand-crafted things.

To set up a tour or to discuss a gift for the gallery fundraising campaign, call the Sam and Alfreda Maloof Foundation at (909) 980-0412.

Millard Sheets... "The father of the California Watercolor School"

Millard Sheets earned a reputation as one of the foremost watercolorists of his era. Born, raised, and educated in southern California, Sheets (1907-1989) studied at Chouinard Art Institute, where he also began teaching while still a third-year student. He was a member of the executive committee that ran the local WPA, the first New Deal art project. During World War II he traveled to India and Burma as a war correspondent-artist for Life magazine. From the late 1930s until 1955 he headed the art departments at Scripps College and Claremont

Graduate School. In 1953 he became director of Otis Art Institute (now Otis/Parsons). For more than 27 years, beginning in 1952, Sheets designed the buildings and accompanying artistic decoration for offices of Home Savings of America throughout California. Outside of California his major commissions included murals for the Detroit Public Library, the Mayo Clinic, the dome of the National Shrine in Washington, D.C., the Notre Dame University Library, and the Hilton Hotel in Honolulu.

Sam worked for Millard from 1946-1950 and Millard was Best Man at Sam and Alfreda's wedding. Their friendship was deep and long lasting.

Architectural rendering of the proposed Educational Center

Capstone to Maloof Foundation Campus

Layout (below) of the proposed Educational Center illustrates the main building, which will house four individual galleries, the central rotunda, visitors center, bookstore and curator's office. The outbuildings will include needed storage space and a conservatory that will be both temperature controlled and fireproof. It will house foundation archives and materials needing special protection.

Naming opportunities are available. Sam will design a handsome recognition wall with wood medallions in honor of those who give major gifts to the gallery campaign.

Gallery Campaign Launched

The Sam and Alfreda Maloof Foundation has launched a 4 million-dollar capital campaign to construct and endow the programming for an Arts and Crafts Educational Center on site. The galleries, archival conservatory, bookstore and storage facility are to be the final addition to the fabulous center Sam has created as a nurturing environment for the perpetuation of Arts and Crafts.

Dedication/ Celebration planned for Sam's 90th

The Foundation is hoping that completion of the Educational Center can be achieved by Sam's 90th birthday next January 24. What a celebration that would be—a birthday and a dedication—a tremendous tribute to Sam's lifetime commitment to supporting artists!

Major gifts by John and Becky Moores and Randell Makinson help get the campaign started.

Two generous gifts have already been given, but there is still a long way to go. We need your help to bring this needed center to fruition. If you would like further information, please contact

Roz Bock at (909) 980-0412 or at malooffoundation@earthlink.net.

Or, if you would like to send a contribution to the gallery campaign now, please include your check made out to The Sam and Alfreda Maloof Foundation in the enclosed envelope. Your donation is greatly appreciated.

All donations are tax deductible to the full extent of the law.

Visual surprises abound on an afternoon stroll along the pathways as Beverly's Garden has evolved into a colorful showcase for artwork as well as nature.

Guests visiting the Maloof garden will be delighted by the wonderful and creative artwork seen throughout. Both Beverly and Sam have been carefully collecting just the right pieces, many created by local artisans, to add a unique flavor to the growing "Discovery Garden."

Garden hours are Thursdays & Saturdays 12:00 - 4:00 p.m. and can be combined with a Maloof museum tour. Check page 8 for tour costs, address and directions.

Kay Sekimachi lecture enchants

On May 5, the University of California at Riverside Extension Program presented artist Kay Sekimachi as part of the Sam and Alfreda Maloof Artist Lecture Series. Kay, an American Crafts Council gold medal winner spoke of how her art has evolved over her lifetime.

Ms. Sekimachi's chosen instrument is the loom on which she has made three-dimensional monofilament hangings, linen-fold boxes and other objects. The soft and pliant creations are exquisitely simple and reflect a natural sense of form.

The fascinating lecture was held in a tent on the site of the future Maloof Gallery at the Maloof Compound.

More lectures are being planned. Keep checking our calendar listings for future dates.

DOCENT CORNER Dick & Jo Ann Castleberry

Dick met Jo Ann in Sioux City Iowa on his first Air Force assignment after graduating from Flight School. Jo Ann worked for Delta Air Lines while he went for his Engineering Degree at Georgia Tech. They then moved to Pasadena, CA where she opened a Delta Ticket Office and Dick went to work for Aerojet General working on satellites, retiring after 37 years. During that time, they raised two children and then moved several times, including living in the Australian Outback for a while.

Dick has been fond of woodworking since he was a child. Thirty years ago he constructed a round cabin at Lake Arrowhead and he recently completed a laminated Bentwood rocker in honor of his first grandchild. He admits that his own woodworking has been influenced by Sam.

Jo Ann, an avid scrapbooker, has articles that she has kept about Sam since the the 60's and she gave Dick a day with Sam Maloof's woodworking class for his birthday, twice.

They jumped at the chance to become docents when the Sam and Alfreda Maloof Foundation opened almost 3 years ago and love to show all visitors Sam's beautiful uses of wood. The Foundation appreciates all the time and energy they so generously give.

We invite you to join the docent group

...for the Sam and Alfreda Malooof Foundation for the Arts and Crafts.
Our docents receive a thorough training in all aspects of the historic residence, the garden and the arts and crafts collection. Training includes a monthly meeting at the home of Sam and Beverly, where you have the opportunity to meet with other docents and our artist of the month. We have flexible scheduling to accommodate our volunteers.
